U.S. SENATOR WHEELER WAS ACQUITTED

VERDICT RENDERED AFTER THREE HOURS DELIBERATION

Solon Receives New and of Daughters Birth at the Same Time—Was Tried for Using His Influence as Senator Before Department of Interior.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, was found to be not guilty of having used his influence illegally before the department of the interior by a jury at Great Falls, Montana, Friday night.

The senator received two pieces of good news simultaneously—his acquittal and the birth to Mrs. Wheeler of a daughter in Washington.

Exactly two hours and thirteen minutes elapsed between the time the jury retired to deliberate and the time the verdict was returned.

But one ballot was taken. Despite Judge Dietrich's order against demonstrations there was a rush toward the bench when the verdict was read.

Senator Wheeler's chief counsel, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, declared that he had regarded the case merely as an offshoot of the Teapot Dome investigation which he started nearly two years ago and said he had felt it his duty to appear as counsel for his colleague.

Senator Wheeler shook the hands of each of the jurors. Court was in session only two minutes after the verdict was read, and formalities completed. Judge Dietrich discharged the jury and the trial of Burton K. Wheeler, storm center of politics, was over.

Cleared by the verdict of a jury, Senator Wheeler issued the following statement:

"The verdict is exactly what I expected. There could have been no other. The verdict is not only a vindication of me, but also of the senate committee, of which Senator Borah was the chairman, and of the great majority of my senate colleagues who voted for the Borah report, which found me innocent of these charges, and against the department of justice.

"I received the verdict of not guilty at the same moment I received a telegram announcing the birth of baby daughter at my home in Washington. During the trial I had more anxiety concerning Mrs. Wheeler than I did over the proceedings of this case.

"Finally, I want to say no man ever had an abler defender than I did in Senator Walsh. I can never repay him for what he has done for me, and what I say about the Senator applies to my other counsel."

Senator Wheeler was indicted by a federal grand jury at Montana April 8, 1924. He was charged specifically with having accepted a fee of $4,000 for prosecuting Campbell's government oil prospecting permit claims after being elected to the senate. This, the indictment charged, was in violation of Section 113 of the United States Penal code.

The accused senator, appearing on the floor of the senate next day, branded the indictment as a "frameup" on the part of the department of justice because of his activities as a prosecutor for the Daugherty Senate investigating committee.

A committee headed by Senators William E. Borah, Irahio, investigated the circumstances surrounding the indictment and the Montanan was "wholly exonerated" in the committee report, which was adopted by the senate.

GASOLINE TAX IS ENJOINED BY AUTO CLUB

No "Bargain Day" Prices on License Tags in Ohio in Future.

The state Auto Association has filed suit in the Franklin county common pleas court to enjoin the collection of the gasoline tax.

"Bargain" prices in automobile license plates came to an end in Ohio today.

Quarterly reductions in auto license plate fees are abolished under a ruling by Attorney General Crabbe, holding that the Brown gasoline tax law providing this reduction is applicable to "commercial cars" only.

The Brown bill thus amends the state automobile law and for the rest of 1925 pleasure car owners will be required to pay the full price for their plates no matter when they buy them.

In 1926 according to the terms of the Brown law, the cost of license plates is to be cut in half, but the quarterly reductions will not be restored.

RIPE FRUITS LARGER PART FOOD INTAKE

Give Nature a Chance to Continue Life to the Prosper Span.

It is not a difficult matter to select diet with assurance of creating normal blood therefrom. Every form of raw vegetation suitable at all for human food contains the desired minerals in their intended original organic form. This is also true of the ripe fruits. These should constitute at least half of daily food intake. But to cook these foods by ordinary methods is to transform them into harmful substances.

The heat element alone is the greatest hastener of oxidation. Consider the electric light bulb. In it is a filament composed of alloys or metal composites peculiarly resistant to the electric current and to oxidation. Exposed before its enclosure in the glass container it does not suffer from oxidation. Place it in the circuit thus exposed and it would be destroyed by oxidation almost instantly. And so it is necessary to draw the oxygen from the glass bulb in which the filament functions in order that the heat generated by the current may not destroy it by oxidation. Likewise, heat applied to food substances which are exposed to the air makes such substances harmful if consumed, because it oxidizes the organic minerals of which they are made.

Each of us has personal control of his health. Let us play no alibis. Better far to accept the responsibility and proceed in safety to a long, happy, useful life in which sickness does not interrupt plans and bring discouragement, perhaps failure where success ought to have resided. Let us carry on and thus give nature her chance thru us to continue normal life for a normal span on this earth.

All animals, except humans, reach an average length of life equal to from ten to fifteen times as long as it takes to mature. And we humans are the only animals to whom God entrusted reasoning faculties and freedom action! And we average only two to three times our maturing period.

A heart-beat was inaugurated millions of years ago and the impulse of it still continues and ever will until there is no more progeny; for the mother gives to her child from her own heart pulsation the throbbing that is to continue thru time. The quality of that heart beat may be impaired along the way and the virility of the blood sent coursing thru the entire system each seven minutes by the muscular power of your heart may determine the quality of the lives of many down the road of all future days. What a responsibility! Are we ready to meet it squarely? Are we ready to accept and apply the means to physical normality which are found chiefly in the wise selection of food? Can we afford to reject the truth even tho it leads us to a somewhat radical revisiting of the food purveyors? No. It is a clear

I looked into the faces of four hundred high school students in a western city recently. There I saw evidence of subnormality in not less than 50 per cent of them. You know what the children of today are eating. Who is responsible for this tragedy? Is it the food purveyors? No. It is a clear case of parental responsibility and general educational responsibility.

CANDIDATE

HINDENBURG

Old Hindenburg, in full panoply of field marshal, stood for an hour and a half Sunday and reviewed the hosts that passed before him in Hanover. Then, in frock coat and iron cross, the presidential candidate barked a speech of acceptance in which he refused to mention the word "republic."

Of course, the frock coat was a concession. It was the sheep's clothing that disguised the wolf of militarism and kaiserism. And the iron cross, almost as numerous as before the war was over as German marks seemed a symbol of democracy, even though military democracy.

But it was the Hindenburg to whom the war will not be ended until Hindenburg is ended. It was the Hindenburg to whom Doorn, in Holland, is the capital of Germany. It was Hindenburg, the field marshal of the emperor. And what Germany needs is a saddler, in spirit. It wants a successor to Frederick Ebert, not a successor to William Hohenzollern. —Cincinnati Times-Star.

RICKETS PERIL
TO POOR BABIES

Lack of Sunshine and Inadequate Food Bring Disease to Many.

New York.—Three out of four infants in a New York tenement district develop rickets before they are a year old.

This is the conclusion of a report made public by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, giving the results of a campaign to combat this disease which it has been carrying on for the last five years.

The report indicates that rickets, the most marked effect of which is to retard the development of the bony tissues of the very young child, is at present a serious obstacle to child health. It is responsible, the report finds, for the fact that fully 25 per cent of the children in one New York tenement district have serious orthopedic defects, such as bow-legs, knock-knees, "funnel chest" and spinal curvatures.

Brings on Disease of the Lungs.

It is also held to be largely responsible for the appalling death rate of young children in this district from pneumonia and other respiratory diseases.

The report, in part, follows: "That child has bow-legs because his mother let him walk too soon." is the popular explanation of the two or three-year-old youngsters with badly bowed legs.

"This thoroughly unscientific theory is, after all, not so far from the truth. Such children usually have suffered from rickets. The most marked effect of this disease is to retard the development of the bony tissues of the body, particularly the long bones of the arms and legs. Their legs, therefore, may be said to be too young, physiologically, to support the weight of their bodies. When they attempt to stand on their feet the bones of the legs bend under the weight of the body like a tender green twig.

"Rickets may be occasioned by one of two factors, or by both together: (1) Inadequate exposure to sunlight, (2) a diet deficient in a feed accessory vitamin, whose nature is as yet unknown, but which enables the body to store calcium and phosphorus in the bones from the food taken into the body.

"The disease is most prevalent during the winter months in north temperate climates, particularly among races with dark skins, in which the pigment still further retards the effects of the sun's rays.

"On the other hand, the disease is practically unknown among negroes in the West Indies, who are receiving an abundance of sunlight, or among Eskimos, who are used to little sunlight, but whose diet from early infancy consists largely of fats and oils of fish. Babies between three months and one year of age are most susceptible to the disease.

Puzzled by Own Curative Methods.

"Physiologists are at a loss to explain how the sun's rays or the oil of fish livers can deposit calcium in the bones, but the fact that they do has been amply demonstrated clinically and in experiments with animals.

"There are, therefore, two methods of attacking rickets: (1) Exposing the babies directly to the rays of the sun or to the ultra-violet rays of a quartz lamp; or (2) giving doses of fish liver oil three times a day during the period of life when rickets is most likely to occur.

"Sunlight in congested city districts is a rare commodity. For this reason, moderate dosages of fish liver oil is a safe, prophylactic measure."

Wireless Ticker Is

Invention of Italian

Berlin.—An instrument called the wireless ticker aroused great interest at the recent Berlin radio exposition, which, incidentally, drew some 400,000 visitors during the two weeks it was open.

This ticker is the invention of an Italian, Maurice Compare. He calls it the Compare secret wireless system. By it, he declared, the receiving station gets on a tape the message as sent into the air by the originator.

It is a method of direct sending and direct printing of wireless messages without code of any sort, though at the same time it is said to insure secrecy.

The transmitter includes a typewriting machine, resembling the ordinary typewriter, an apparatus called a combiner, which can produce numberless different combinations of frequencies and transmit them to numberless stations, separately and secretly, and an ordinary wave generator.

The receiving machine includes a wave receiver, which is connected with a so-called resonator, and again connected with a typing apparatus.

Drowns in Pond

Toledo, Ohio.—Erick Marohn, fourteen, lost his life by drowning when his bicycle crashed through thin ice as he was riding over a frozen pond near the west end of the Fassett street bridge. Other youths who were playing about the pond pulled him from the water with a rake and attempted to revive him by artificial respiration methods.

Trimming Maple Trees

The Department of Agriculture says that the best time to trim maple trees is in June, when they are in most active growth. Probably the worst time is in August, unless it is just as the buds are pushing, when they are most likely to bleed.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Faille Promised Pronounced Vogue During Spring and Summer Seasons.

At every exhibition of fashions for spring, white stands as the shade destined for a pronounced vogue. Sport dresses, afternoon frocks, evening gowns and coats and wraps for every occasion are developed in white materials of varied textures. The ribbed silks, like faille and bengaline, are frequently employed in the fashioning of smart little one and two-piece frocks.

Kasha, cashmere, flannel and fabrics of similar character are used for coats, while the loveliest evening gowns are developed in lustrous satin-finished crepe, faille and chiffon.

Recently an exclusive specialty shop emphasized in a most interesting display of new models the importance of white evening frocks, enlivened with touches of gold in the form of delicate embroidery in metal threads, fine beading, a bit of gold lace or a piping of gold ribbon.

An Attractive Model of White Faille in Fine Weave.

instances of white the faint pastel shades of pink, blue, mauve and faint yellow.

A successful model, which already shows signs of having a decided vogue, is made of white faille in a particularly fine weave. Of special interest are the square pockets, to which the attached flat panels of the material are caught up under the skirt. In the back a similar panel reaches from neck to hem, giving the effect of a wide box plait. The jabot is of white georgette bound with faille.

This frock is also shown in pastel colors and in white crepe de chine, with a jabot of printed chiffon.

Skirt, Slip-on Blouses, for New Sports Outfit

Sports frocks, suitable also for boat or motor travel, are now likely to be in two pieces—skirt and slip-on blouse—as of the one-piece shaping so long in vogue, and knitted wear models are more frequently of this two-piece shaping than in one piece.

Flannel, both plain and striped, is a favorite material for these sport-travel frocks, as is silk in plain color. Fancy stripes and plaids are extensively used.

One thing in common with all manner of sport-travel suits is the matching scarf as an accessory to the neck finish.

Small, round hats of soft felt, ribbon or flower trimmed, matching the sports frock are the prevailing millinery accessory. It must be recorded, however, that since flowers are the latest decree of fashion this trimming seems to be the more highly favored. When flowers are used they are usually in cluster form or one large blossom is chosen, as, for instance, a silk rose, and the brim of the flower-trimmed felt sports hat is usually unbound. Such colors as smoke, blue, peach bloom, cloud gray, orchid, rose and russet predominate in these hats, for color trend is toward light and delicate tones.

Dance Frock Feature

The Elizabethan decollete, square and low in front and high behind, is a feature of one of the recently designed dance frocks. This dress is of green organdie, the bouffant skirt adorned with painted white and green flowers arranged in panels.

Replaced by Bow Tie

Windsors and four-in-hands have given place to bow ties for wear with the radium silk shirts with attached collars and cuffs, which form so important a part of the new spring suit costumes. The ties usually are of foulard in polka-dot design.

LAKE TRANSPORT TO HAUL THIRSTY OHIOANS TO BEER

BOAT ACCOMMODATING 800 IS CHARTERED IN ADVANCE OF ONTARIO'S REDISCOVERED OASIS.

5 Per Cent To Go On Sale Within 10 Days — Building and Land Booms Strike North Shores of Erie.

Cleveland, April 23.—The time is fast approaching when thirsty Clevelanders will be able to snub their bootleggers and snap their fingers at snooping dry agents.

For in about ten days 5 per cent beer goes on sale in Ontario, and elaborate preparations are being made on both sides of the lake to transport Americans to where the beer is and provide for their proper entertainment upon their arrival.

Anticipating a rush to the Canadian oasis, the Western Reserve Navigation Co. has purchased the City of St. Ignace from the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. The St. Ignace will replace the steamer Colonial, a smaller boat, and will start May 28 on a daily schedule between Cleveland and Port Stanley, Ont.

One at a Time, Please.

"The St. Ignace has 185 state-rooms and accommodations for 800 passengers," said Harry T. Shannon, excursion manager of the Western Reserve Navigation Co., last night. "On the Colonial we could carry only about 400."

"We're expecting a rush of excursionists because of the sale of 5 per cent beer, but we're ready to take special precautions to see that passengers don't try to bring back any beer except inside of them, which we cannot prevent."

The thrifty citizens of Ontario are preparing to reap a rich harvest from the purses of thirsty Americans. They are getting ready for a great flood of American tourists, not only in the lake ports but also in the inland cities and hamlets.

"When is it coming?" is the question of the hour in Canada.

While all legislation has been passed, the date when the sale of 5 per cent beer becomes legal depends on a proclamation to be issued by Premier Howard Ferguson, and this, in turn, depends on the establishment of regulations governing the sale, the issuing of licenses and the collection of taxes.

Another cause of delay is the time required by brewers to adjust formulas so the alcoholic content of the beer will not exceed the legal limit. The latest word from Toronto indicates, however, that all these matters will be settled in about ten days.

PLACE CARLOAD OF MATURED FISH IN BUCKEYE LAKE

A carload of fish, 8,000 in number, of matured catfish, bass and crappies were placed in Buckeye Lake last Friday. The fish came to Newark from Sandusky hatchery and were taken in auto trucks to Avondale and Buckeye Lake Park for distribution.

The fish came at the solicitation of and were distributed by the Licking County Fish and Game Association, assisted by Fred Harlow, district fish and game warden of Newark.

This is the second large shipment made to the lake within the past year and should make fishing good another season.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. STRAIGHT TALKS
WITH AUNT EMMY

On Signing Papers for Strangers

"Did you hear about the terrible thing that happened to Mrs. Thompson, Aunt Emmy?" asked Maud. "It seems that a man came to see her to ask her to invest in some securities his firm was selling, and she said she did not have any ready money. He asked her if she had some Liberty Bonds, and she showed him her one Liberty Bond, a thousand dollar one. He told her that there were a number of counterfeit bonds about and upon examining her bond said there were some marks that indicated it might be spurious. Poor Mrs. Thompson nearly fainted and begged the stranger to tell her what to do about it.

"He told her not to be unduly alarmed, that there was a chance that he was mistaken. His firm was indignant, he said, about the counterfeit bonds that had been foisted on the public and intended to do everything in its power to run down the culprits. They employed a man who was an authority on counterfeits and he could tell in a minute if her bond was good or not. So Mrs. Thompson let him have the bond to take to his office for examination."

"And, of course, he didn't bring it back," commented Aunt Emmy.

"Worse than that!" Maud went on. "He said that, being a widow, she should be very careful in her business dealings, so he made her sign what he called a receipt, although she didn't read it. About a week after his visit she received a number of shares of stock that she says she never heard of and certainly never bought. So she wrote to the investment house the stock came from and said she thought a mistake had been made. Imagine her surprise when she was informed that she had signed an order for those shares of stock in exchange for a $1,000 Liberty Bond!

"First she was coming right over to see you and then decided not to, because she felt ashamed when she remembered that you had warned her about being taken in, now that Mr. Thompson is dead and she has to handle her own business affairs. My brother Tom says he thinks nothing can be done about it, as the receipt bearing her signature is really an order for the stock."

"I am sorry to hear this, Maud," said Aunt Emmy. "What a pity she did not take her bond to the bank to have it examined if that slick salesman aroused suspicions in her mind as to its genuineness. She would have been dealing with people of integrity, whom she could trust absolutely. And yet she allowed herself to be duped by a perfect stranger!"

"Yet there must be a lot of that sort of thing when you consider that over $600,000,000 a year is being taken away from the honest people in the United States by stock swindlers. If the people would only learn to trust the guidance of their financial affairs to their banks and never sign anything they have not read and do not understand, there would be less unhappiness about money matters."—Anne B. Aymes.

NEW ERA FOR

New York.—A new era lies ahead for agriculture because it now commands the best economic thought of the business world directed on its prime requirements of better distribution and marketing. President W. C. Gordon of the State Bank Division, American Bankers Association, declares in a recent communication to the thirteen thousand members of the division. He seeks to enlist their interest in the work of improving the marketing of farm products.

"The farmer today finds himself far removed from his consumer-customer by a long line of intermediate agencies, which often leave him in a position of disadvantage as an individual producer," Mr. Gordon says. "It is, therefore, not strange that he should seek to apply to agriculture those principles of production and distribution found successful in industry. His rightful ambition is to make, where feasible, a general application of successful business experience to the marketing of agricultural products. Commanding the best economic thought of the business world, agriculture undoubtedly stands on the threshold of a new era. In lieu of fantastic panaceas, agricultural welfare—which, after all, is the Nation's welfare—has need of a sane, long range program that is at once practical, constructive and economically sound."

He goes on to call attention to the "long view program suggested for agricultural distribution" at Washington by the Agricultural Conference, urging study of it.

CO-OPS

There are many small co-operatives throughout the United States, handling wool, peanuts, watermelons, strawberries, beans, syrup, and other products. The government reports that there are at least 10,000 local co-operative organizations in the United States. The Iowa Fleece and Wool Growers' Association does an annual business of $2,836,259; the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers, $1,500,000; the Oregon Wool Growers, $500,000; while the New York, Texas and South Dakota Associations are said to be handling about a quarter of a million dollars' business each.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Bandolero," a romance of Spain in which the vendetta of parents and the love of a boy and girl are woven against a background of bullfights and mountain brigandage, is due at the Met theater Monday. This photodrama which was photographed in Cuba and in natural locations in Spain, is based on the novel by Paul Gwynne and was adapted and directed by Tom Terriss.

Pedro de Cordoba has the title role of Dorando, the Bandolero, or brigand chief, who is a Spanish version of Robin Hood. He has been driven to outlawry by his discovery that the Marques de la Torre (Gustav van Seyffertiz) is making unwelcome love to his wife, who is killed in the fight that follows. Dorando sends his daughter (Renee Adoree) away to be brought up by a servant. Then, as the first step in his sworn revenge, he kidnaps the marques' son, Roman (Manuel Grando) whom he hides away in the mountains—but not so far from his daughter's retreat that the young persons do not meet and fall in love with one another. Then the hatred of the fathers and the love of their children work to a dramatic climax.

Others in the cast are Gordon Begg, Dorothy Ruth, Arthur Donaldson, Maria Valray and Jose Rueda. It is a Metro-Goldwyn picture. Mr. Terriss wrote the adaptation from Paul Gwynne's famous novel.

HOW EXCESSIVE TAXES BLIGHT A NATION'S LIFE

Productive Effort Stops if Government Takes Undue Share of Profits, Says Treasury Official.

WEALTH IN RUSSIA FLED BEFORE THE TAXGATHERER

Men in America Prefer Golf to Giving Fruits of Three Days Work a Week to Income Taxes

The blighting effects of excessive taxation, leading to a nation's economic destruction, are described in the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal by Garrard B. Winston, Under-secretary of the Treasury. Citing possible effects on the Ford Motor Car Company, he declares that "the value is so large and its ownership so centered it is conceivable that collection of inheritance taxes may check, if not destroy, that unit of policy which has created and expanded that industry and thus prevent its future prosperity. Of what avail, then, is it to any government if it collects one hundred million dollars once in estate taxes and destroys a source of income upon which it can rely for revenue year after year?"

"Success of the Ford Company does not mean simply that Mr. Ford and his son have grown wealthy. It means employment of tens of thousands of men and women; that mines, forests, railroads and vessels are brought into use; that the public has received an efficient and inexpensive means of transportation; that the farm is in touch with the city, and the worker with his office," Mr. Winston says in part:

Wealth Flees Oppression

"Upon first impression it might appear that a nation could take all of the earnings of its citizens or all of their property. The Soviet government proposed to appropriate all instrumentalities of trade and commerce. Yet, when the state reached out to grasp this wealth, it disappeared and left nothing but a few tangible objects, such as gold and jewels, which were easily transported to other countries. Wealth in Russia ceased to exist.

"If income tax rates are placed so high that capital in productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with the risk, capital will go out of productive business, lie idle, go abroad, go into tax-exempt securities, or find other ways of avoiding the tax. If income tax rates are so excessive that a man of ability finds he must work more than three days a week for the government, he will become discouraged and decide that the result is not worth the effort. Less income will be produced and less will be realized from the tax.

"Recently a letter came to the Treasury from a small farmer. He owned a few acres which in 1913 were assessed at $900 and on which a tax of $13 was levied. In 1924 the assessed value increased to $3,200 and the tax to $123, but the farm failed to produce any more. Taxes exceeded the rental value of the land and more than the net earnings of the property were taken by the state. The farm was abandoned and now produces no tax.

"Often there come to notice cases where a particular improvement is not made, or a particular business is not started, because after deducting taxes the risk exceeds the value of the expected return. Men have dropped business, spent their winters in Florida and their summers abroad, because what they are permitted to retain under present tax rates is not worth the labor they must give to acquire it. They prefer golf to the further development of the country.

Unscientific Taxes Destroy a Nation
"Unscientific methods of taxation may actually destroy the very earnings or property which it should be the principal interest of a government to foster. When it reaches the limits of what is known as its taxable capacity, a nation has begun to die. If taxes are raised too high, a country will slowly but surely destroy itself. It will use for daily consumption the seed corn on which its future life depends, and the spirit of initiative and adventure in its people will finally disappear. One or more of three things happen: The quantity of consumption is cut down, which means a lowering of the standard of living; or capital accumulations for extensions, improvements and new undertakings must diminish, resulting in a slowing up of progress and lessening eventually of taxable revenue; or, thirdly, a slackening of effort on the part of the citizen will take place when too large a part of his earnings are taken in taxes.

"The effort in taxation should be to find the tax which will continue to raise money over a period of years. Invariably, with an excessive tax, its yield has fallen off year by year, while each rate reduction is reflected in an increase of taxable income. If the Treasury is to be assured a continuance of revenue, our citizens must prosper. If they are to prosper, the appropriation by the state of their earnings and property must be based upon economically sound principles."

At the close of a busy day.

Conditioning the Farm Horse

Thousands of farm horses have been idle or roughing it during the winter months and are not ready for hard, steady work. It is now the season when the program of many a farm horse is suddenly changed without the preparation that is necessary for efficient service.

On many farms the horses have obtained their winter feed from stalk fields and the straw stack. They come through in a thin condition and need to be put in better flesh before ready for hard work. This is best done by gradually giving the horses in advance a portion of the same ration that is to be fed during the work season.

Whether the horse has been out in the open or standing idly in the barn, a moderate amount of light work preceding the rush season is advisable. The hardening process may be accomplished by changing horses each half day in doing the necessary hauling about the farm preparatory to working in the fields. This will exercise and strengthen the muscles without tiring them.

The horse will not perform efficiently in an ill-fitting harness. The raw sores that develop are due, in most instances, to plunging an idle horse suddenly into heavy work or to the fact that the harness is not properly adjusted. It is especially important that the horse collar be of the right kind, shape and size. A well-fitted collar does not choke and distributes the draft over the entire shoulder.

During the winter months most farm horses are groomed very little and the long hair of the winter coats is a handicap when spring comes. It is best to remove the old hair at once, by clipping. This is important as it increases the efficiency of the horse. It prevents the extreme sweating and lathering that would otherwise take place as the heavy work goes on and the weather becomes warm.

Due to the fact that the direct farm income is mainly from cattle, hogs, or sheep, the care of the farm horse and mule is generally neglected. It should be remembered that the income from the other classes of live stock depends upon the crops that the farm produces; and the horse furnishes the power that makes farm operations possible. More care for the work horse will in the end effect a saving and increase the efficiency on many farms. Be fair to the horse, by doing the things that will give him a good chance to give his best during the present season.

Dictionary in Demand

The spelling bee in which Republican women voters competed at the Oak Lane Review club on Tuesday was but a more elaborate event than many which nowadays test the fair orthographers at afternoon parties, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. Cross-word brain twisters necessitate many a resort to the dictionary and success in the game, whether for personal satisfaction or in trying for prizes, requires cultivation of the gentle art of correct spelling. Whatever the impelling cause, the benefit derived from improved orthography is very desirable.

Oldsters profited by the rigorous oral drill in spelling which was prominent in the simplified schooling of other days. Whatever the theory of modern methods, the results in modern manuscripts do not do it credit. There is too much boggling over words that enter into the ordinary vocabulary, too much spelling according to the letter-writer's own taste and fancy. If the cross-word puzzle and the spelling bee will help to better spelling they are to be encouraged.

Just as we got over the top of the rise the neckyoke broke and let the waggin run onto the horses, and away they went like the devil before daylight. Seeing that there wasn't anything special to stay in the waggin for, I got out on 'em head and rolled along down hill after 'em."—Kansas City Star.

Tuna Fishing in Hawaii

The Hawaii Tuna Fishing club of Honolulu offers exceptional facilities to the angler in reaching the famous game-fishing grounds, and under its direction the sport has been brought into national prominence. The world's record for tuna catches was made in Hawaiian waters by Jump of Los Angeles. The Tuna club now has a well-equipped rendezvous at Kihel on the island of Maui, while similar fishing is accessible from Honolulu, Kalahele, Hilo, Kailua and Waimea. Among the game fish are the yellow and blue fin tuna, ono, ulua and swordfish.—F. J. Halton in Adventure Magazine.

A freak bolt of lightning struck the upraised shovel of a workman at Salem, Mass., split into three parts, and jumped to three different houses. In one house it stunned six-months-old twins. Suitable Type of Poison ContainerCanvas Bags or Pasteboard Boxes Unsatisfactory.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Nicotine dusts" which have recently come into extensive use for the control of certain insect pests present a serious problem to the manufacturers because of the fact that they deteriorate in strength in the usual form of commercial packing. This makes it difficult for the manufacturers to label their product as to its percentage of ingredients in accordance with the federal insecticide and fungicide act, and the consumer has no assurance that the product he is obtaining will be efficient. The United States Department of Agriculture has undertaken some tests and investigations to determine the extent of such losses and indicate the most suitable type of container which would make possible the marketing of a more uniform and standard product.

The findings of the investigators so far have been published in Department Bulletin 1312, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Among other results it is stated that canvas bags, pasteboard boxes, and paraffined boxes are unsatisfactory containers for nicotine dusts. Airtight metal or glass containers only should be used for packing them commercially.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, upon request from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Plowing Early for Soy Beans Is Favored Plan

Success with soy beans depends more upon a good seedbed than is true of any other field crop. From a long study of soy beans at the Missouri experiment station and on farms over the state, C. Carter urges early plowing in case it was not done in the fall.

Soy beans cannot compete with weeds, hence the great importance of killing off as many weeds as possible before the soy beans come up. This is accomplished by working the ground at least twice before planting, once three or four weeks before and once ahead of the planter.

For the greater part of Missouri and similar latitudes, the last week in May or the first week in June is the best time to plant soy beans. The beans do very poorly in cold or dry soil so there is always danger of the weeds getting ahead of them. A properly prepared seedbed is more important than two weeks of time at the planting season.

Furnish Fuel to Keep Fowls Warm in Winter

Hens have more work to do in order to lay eggs in winter than any other time of year. For one thing, feed must furnish fuel for keeping them warm. To manufacture whites, yolks and shells of eggs requires a healthy body supplied with certain food elements which hens naturally pick up in the spring and summer.

One of these important food elements or rather a number of them have been found to be contained in buttermilk and similar food elements are easy to supply in the laying mash by the addition of 10 per cent or more of dried buttermilk.

A ration consisting of 25 pounds wheat bran, 25 pounds standard middlings, 30 pounds cornmeal, 5 pounds bonemeal and 15 pounds dried buttermilk has given fine results. In feeding, the laying mash should be kept before the flock all the time and should be supplemented by feeding scratch grain twice a day.

Clover Will Do Well if Given Real Good Chance

Every farmer likes to look at a good field of clover, especially on his own farm. Older men tell us of the time when clover grew naturally and all that was necessary for a successful "catch" was just to sow the seed. But many years of cropping have brought about far-reaching changes in the soil. Lime is continually getting away in the drainage water, in crops sold off the farm, and in the bones of animals. Phosphorus—never very plentiful even in virgin soils—has been reduced by cropping and by live stock until today it is the limiting element in most soils.

With these factors in mind, it is not hard to see why clover fails so often, for clover needs lots of lime, and it never does well unless plenty of phosphorus is present. To be sure, many other reasons are often given for clover failure—but clover will do well if given a real chance.

Selecting Clean Ground for Gardens Is Favored

It is a sad mistake to select a weedy, grassy patch of ground for the garden, thinking to give it good culture and get rid of the weeds and grass. In the first place, such soil is always badly infested with grubs, cutworms, wireworms and other pests that breed in grass. These lack food when the weeds and grass are kept down, and feed on the plants with disastrous results. If it is a dry year you may be able to keep the weeds in check, but a wet year will give you a run for your money. It is almost an impossible task to keep a rich garden clean if it has been overrun with weeds for a year or so when wet weather gives them its backing. They seem to spring up full size in a night.

WOOL FROM 30,000 SHEEP USED DAILY BY ONE CARPET MILL53 Miles of Carpet Produced Every Day by N. Y. Manufacturer—*Many Interesting Facts Revealed Through the Publication of Statistics.

The wool used daily in the weaving of carpets and rugs by a New York manufacturer is equal to the shearing from thirty thousand sheep. The soft, rich coats of these animals are turned into the looms at the rate of 120,000 pounds every day.

These and many other interesting facts were revealed recently through the publication of statistics concerning their mammoth mills at Yonkers, N. Y., by Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, said to be the largest manufacturers of carpets and rugs in the world.

If all the wool used in these mills were reckoned according to the number of animals from which it is sheared, a year's output at the mills would represent the clip from 9,000,000 sheep—a number which would constitute herds beyond the imagination.

For the manufacturing of all this wool into American-made carpets and rugs, the energy and industry of 7,600 employees is devoted with a spirit of co-operation and craftsmanship resembling the loyalty given to his individual loom by the smaller weaver of bygone days.

This army of workers operates 1,500 looms with a total daily production of 90,000 yards of carpets and rugs. Place one day's tremendous output in a continuous line and it would make a strip of carpet 53 miles long. In one year of eight-hour working days, the 1,500 looms turn out 28 millions of yards, making an annual production of almost 16,000 lineal miles. The carpet made through a year's effort would reach more than half way around the world.

Every hour this mill produces 11,250 yards, or 187½ yards per minute! The amount of mechanical energy entering the work may be fancied from the fact that the company uses 225 tons of coal every day. And all this activity takes place in mills which occupy 52½ acres of floor space, ample area to accommodate the parking of about 40,000 motor cars!

It is interesting to note that the founder of these giant mills was also the inventor of the famous Axminster loom. The institution which has carried on since 1860 has specialized, it is said, in the making of four basic weaves known as Axminsters, Velvets, Tapestry, Brussels and Wilton Velvets.

WHY, KITTY

Columbus, April 23.—Crazed by the heat and made valorous by feline traditions that "a good cat can lick any dog that ever lived," a Columbus alley cat today went on the warpath.

When it had finished, a goat, a dog and another cat were numbered among its victims. But its triumph was short-lived. Hard-hearted police, who know "the path of glory leads but to the grave," killed the cat.

The fighting feline first made its appearance at the residence of J. F. Krobbiel, where it attacked a goat, springing onto its back and biting it in its neck. The cat repeated its maneuvers on a dog and a cat in the yard of Mrs. Grace Lane, a County Jail Matron, who fired at the cat, wounding it. Police killed the mauler.

Health authorities are to examine the animal for rabies.

Wheeler in Statuary Hall

Gen. Joseph Wheeler—"Little Joe," the husky Rough Riders in the Cuban campaign called him—is Alabama's choice for her long vacant pedestal in Statuary hall in the Capitol at Washington, says the Providence Journal.

Wheeler was not a native son of the state that has honored him by placing his effigy in what has been flippantly styled "the national chamber of horrors." But upon resigning his commission in the army to give his sword to the Confederacy he became colonel of an Alabama regiment and that state was his home when he volunteered for the Spanish war. By 1898 he was gray bearded and too frail looking for a cavalryman, but stood up under the hardships of the Cuban campaign with a soldierly vigor that won the admiration of the little army and the envy of brother officers.

With General Wheeler in Statuary hall 22 states have filled their quota of two distinguished dead each. Interest in this American Valhalla has been lacking for a good many years, so that it is filling slowly. Nineteen states are not represented at all.

BASEBALL.

Next Sunday afternoon, April 26, the fast Lancaster Moore baseball team will oppose the local F. O. E. outfit at Mason's park.

Neither team has been defeated this season and the game promises to be a good one. Lancaster's team is composed of the pick of the Twilight league players in that section. The F. O. E. have polished off their rough spots and strengthened their weak ones in the past week. Several new faces will appear in the line-up, among them "our own" Guy Pettit.

If you haven't seen the Circleville team in action yet, you should make every effort to see them Sunday, as this will be the last exhibition game and next week the releases will cut the team to about eleven men. Don't forget Mason's park at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Admission 25 cents.

Toledo, April 23.—(U. P.)—Otis B. Thomas, son of the Rev. A. A. Thomas, of Lima, was jailed here today on a federal warrant charging he used the mails to defraud.

According to the warrant he wrote machinery manufacturers representing himself to be an agent for high schools here and elsewhere commissioned to buy materials for manual training departments of the schools.

Having thus established himself, the warrant charges, he then asked the manufacturers to send him expense money with which to visit the factories and inspect his proposed purchases.

An investigation is said to have disclosed that Thomas had no connection with the schools he claimed to represent.

Kiwi a Wonderful Bird

The kiwi is called the strangest bird known to man. It was recently obtained by the government in exchange for a cage of rare white owls. There is no trace of wings on the kiwi. It is a very meditative creature, standing motionless for hours, apparently with a perpetual frown. It sleeps all day and digs for its food at night, which is buried by its keepers. Furthermore, it has the growl of a dog and does not fly.—Kansas City Times.

SWEET CORN MAKES

GOOD FLOW DOWN CROP.

That sweet clover makes a valuable green manure crop when plowed down for corn is the conclusion of C. J. Willard, assistant professor of farm crops Ohio State university, based on the results of extensive field experiments with the crop. As early as May 10 about 3/4 of the total nitrogen is present in the roots and tops of the plant. Professor Willard states in reporting his experiments in the March-April bulletin of the state experiment station.

"The more vigorous the growth of the preceding season, the larger the proportion of nitrogen accumulated by May 10. In 1910 the total nitrogen had reached 152 pounds, or nearly the maximum amount per acre, at that early date.

"Since so large an amount of nitrogen is present early in the year, it is best for economical soil improvement to plow this growth under in the latter part of April or early in May so the full growing season may be utilized by the crop of corn.

"When we consider that not less than 120 pounds of nitrogen has been found in the sweet clover stand early in May, an amount sufficient for the entire nitrogen requirements of an 80-bushel corn crop the value of shortening the rotation by plowing the sweet clover down at this time is apparent. This is still more apparent if we remember that an application of 300 pounds of a high analysis fertilizer like a 3-12-4 for example, would add less than nine pounds of nitrogen to the land.
